Doings of the Legislators

(ED. A. NOWACK.)

Lansing—Love pirates, shieks, vamps—male as well as female—home wreckers, heart thieves and married men and women who lavish their affections on persons to whom they are not married, would be fined $500 or go to jail for one year or both under terms of an anti-free love bill introduced by Rep. Callender, Detroit. The bill is designed to materially strengthen the present law on chastity and morality.

Rep. Cora Anderson, L'Anse, would license hair dressers and all beauty specialists and create a board of examiners. Rep. Espie's bill prohibiting shipping of untested cattle into areas where the tuberculin test for cattle has been made, passed the house after a hot debate, the Clinton county winning every point and passing his bill with but one dissenting vote.

Efforts to change the name of Michigan Agricultural College to Michigan State College have been beaten, the bill being referred to the committee. A substitute is to be offered and the proposed name of the Michigan State College of Agriculture, Engineering, Science and Arts.

Rep. C. C. Appropriation bill, introduced by M. A. C., appropriating $1,025,000 for general purposes for the college, the other asking $60,000 for a sewerage disposal plant, another for a dairy farm at Chatham, to cost $20,000, and another asking a field laboratory at Graham to cost $15,000.

Five bills, introduced by the Espie bill, would amend the house last week. The bills include one prohibiting hunting in Macomb county on Sunday, the pilfering of coin boxes, making additions to the curriculum of the State College of Mines, Houghton. Another bill simplifies securing of judgments under the judicature act.

Re. Smedley, Grand Rapids, has introduced an appropriation bill asking $25,000 for the Department of Conservation to conduct rigid stream pollution investigation work and employ engineers and chemists. A companion bill provides strict enforcement and regulatory measures to prevent pollution.

GAME WARDEN R. S. BABBITT RESIGNS

(By Ed A. Nowack)

Lansing, Mich.—District Warden John Speck of Fairview will succeed District Warden Reuben S. Babbitt of Grayling, it was announced yesterday at the Department of Conservation. Mr. Babbitt will assume the less arduous duties of deputy game and fish warden. A successor to District Warden Speck for Fairview has not yet been determined.

Mr. Babbitt has been in the department 20 years. He is one of the oldest wardens in point of service in the department and is held in high regard by Director Baird and the sportsmen who know him generally.

District Warden Speck goes to Grayling primarily because of the advantages his children may have in schooling facilities. Mr. Speck has been district warden since the new system was made effective and is considered one of the most efficient men in the department.

During the last forest fire season District Warden Babbitt, with the aid of an efficient staff, kept the fire loss down to a minimum. The records show that his district, comprising of Crawford, Kalkaska, Missaukee and Roscommon, reported a total of 125 acres, 22,685 acres of private land burned over and 850 acres of state land burned. Loss to standing timber, merchantable and second growth, by reason of those fires amounted to $3,915 while a loss of $200 to equipment and other property resulted. The total loss was $4,115 while the cost of fire suppression was $4,105.40. This record, for the amount of property involved, was one of the lowest established in the state last year by any of the wardens.

SAGINAW HAS TOURIST CAMP.

When the tourist season opens, tourists will find at Saginaw one of the best equipped tourist camps in this section. By late spring the city of Saginaw will have spent $10,000 to $12,000 in beautifying and equipping a twelve five and six acres of land in Rust Park.

The camp site is entirely surrounded by a wire fence and is located on Linto Lake, the Saginaw River and a canal which joins both. It is in close proximity to Hoyt Park and is easily accessible from all state trunk highways entering Saginaw.

The camp contains a caretaker's house near the main entrance, a combination rest-room and dining room, and a building which contains showers, men's and women's lavatories and a laundry. A deep well has been placed.

It is planned to charge tourists a nominal fee for the use of the park. Streets have been planned in the area and commodious sites have been laid out fronting the streets for the erection of tents and parking of automobiles.

Heretofore Saginaw has had no tourists' camp. The plan for the present one was inaugurated and pushed forward by the Saginaw Automobile Club. It is owned by the city.

BUSINESS PLACE CHANGES HANDS

A. M. LEWIS SELLS BUSINESS TO EAST JORDAN DRUGGISTS.

Monday saw the changing in ownership of one of our best established retail business places when Addison M. Lewis sold his drug business to Charles McNamara and James Gidley, druggists, of East Jordan.

Mr. Lewis came to Grayling 17 years ago and purchased the drug business then owned and operated by L. Fournier. Since that time he has successfully conducted a splendid store. And from his time, besides looking after his business interests, he has given liberally of his time in the interests of public affairs. He has always been a willing worker whenever called upon. The writer will always remember with a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction his experience in serving on committees with Mr. Lewis; the work was pleasant, agreeable and carried out in a business way. Mr. Lewis will be greatly missed from our community. He says he intends to continue his home in Grayling, but we know him well enough to realize that he will not long be idle, and no doubt new work will carry him out of the city most of the time. However we shall be glad to find his esteemed family continuing to reside in our city.

Messers McNamara and Gidley have been in the drug business in East Jordan for about 20 years, where they conduct a well established drug store. Mr. McNamara arrived in Grayling Monday and will assume active charge of the Grayling store. His old East Jordan friends here speak in the highest terms of him and Mr. McNamara and we are sure they will meet with warm reception from our people. We assure them a cordial welcome and trust that their experience in Grayling will be pleasant and with satisfactory reward.

Rep. A. Dykstra, Grand Rapids, would prevent any candidate for state or county office being declared a nominee unless a majority vote of the voters for such office be secured to him. Where no majority vote is cast the two highest men would run it off at a second primary which shall be held one week from the first primary election. Where two or more candidates for the same state or county office are to be nominated and where the field of candidates is correspondingly increased, same situation shall prevail.

Peeved and stinging under the constantly increasing price of gasoline, Rep. DeBoer, Grand Rapids, introduced a joint resolution proposing federal control of gasoline prices as an utter public national safety measure.

Rep. Smedley, Grand Rapids, has introduced an appropriation bill asking $25,000 for the Department of Conservation to conduct rigid stream pollution investigation work and employ engineers and chemists. A companion bill provides strict enforcement and regulatory measures to prevent pollution.

NEW STANDARD SIX BROUGHAM

Repeat with smart appearance and distinctive features not common to cars of its class, and with a quality of chassis and body construction that arrests immediate attention, the new Standard Six, four-door Brougham came to the market last week as the newest of the new body types which this company has created.

Its body is low to the ground. Its appearance is distinctive. And with its four-door body are seats of full width and roominess which give comfort and ease of riding which all motor car buyers seek.

Bodies are built with full metal panels, except for leather-covered back and rear quarters. The ornamental top bows and oval rear quarter and back windows give it a personality that stands out.

Within the Millais upholstery, the attractive fittings, opalescent, rear-corner reading lamps; the heavy, upholstered foot rest and robe rail contribute like distinction.

Above all balloon tires with 5.25 inch casing this new Brougham is mounted on the Standard Six chassis of 113 inch wheel base—ideal for traffic—with a 50 horsepower engine carried on its own subframe as a unit with the transmission.

Light Control on Steering Wheel. The entire ignition is water-proof; even the spark plugs are protected against rain or a careless car washer. Electric wiring is carried in metal covered conduits. The single-plate clutch gives ease of operation, and gear shifting is silent and smooth.

Off the steering wheel has gone the spark advance control; the engine automatically times its firing to its own speed and the driver has one less thing to watch, and one less source of trouble from forgetfulness.

The entire lighting control has been mounted on the steering wheel, at finger tips, so one's eyes need not be taken from the road in passing other cars at night; the light is no need to grope at the instrument board, down under the wheel, for the light switch.

HARP NOVELTY COMPANY

HARP NOVELTY COMPANY

The Harp Novelty Company is a musical entertainment company whose programs feature the music of the harp, among the earliest known of musical instruments, and one which has always held a deep place in the hearts of the people. The modern harp is a piece of intricate mechanism, possessing about three thousand distinct parts.

The four young women who compose the Harp Novelty Company also employ in their instrumental numbers the cello, violin, clarinet and concert accordion.

Adding to the variety of their program are vocal numbers ranging from classical selections to Italian songs and gypsy airs rendered in special costumes. Humorous readings also abound.

The Harp Novelty Company has conceived a program which is characterized throughout by dash and vivacity.

KEEPING UP WITH DEMANDS

LAUNDRY ADDS NEW MANGLE AND CURTAIN DRYER.

The Grayling Laundry is keeping up with its increase in business by adding new equipment. Manager, Halger F. Peterson is alive to every issue pertaining to laundering of the family washing and feels that every effort should be made to please the lady of the house in the laundering of her clothes, and the making of her labor in the home as easy as possible and without extra expense to the family budget.

An inspection of the laundry will convince every visitor that great care and pains are taken with every garment, and that it is a waste of labor and hard work to try to do the family washing at home.

Visitors will be welcome and will be shown every courtesy in conducting them thru the plant. Mr. Peterson is assisted in the work by Mrs. Peterson who gives every article her personal attention. A visit to that place will convince the most fastidious person that the laundry is the place to send the family washings.

The garments first go to the checking room where every article is recorded. From there it goes to the washing machine, where it is washed in the finest of soap suds. The laundry uses nothing but the purest of soaps and water, which guarantees clean, sanitary garments.

Next the clothes are put thru extractors for taking out the water, which, unlike the home wringer, does not tear the garments nor strip off buttons. A very rapidly revolving vessel, perforated thru sides and bottom forces the water out of the clothes. And here they are separated for ironing and pressing.

All fast pieces such as table linens, bed linens, towels, etc., are sent to the mangle for ironing. Here is where the laundry has put in a lot of effort for producing good work. Last month a large new modern American floating, two-roller mangle was installed. This is in charge of Mrs. Ingram and Mrs. Cochran who inspect every piece of linen and gives them their personal attention, and care just as much as if they were their own customers, serving every customer like a good neighbor.

The finished wearing apparel is sent to the press machines that are in charge of Mrs. Korhonen who takes a keen delight to see how well she can finish them, and with the Triplex machine does finer ironing than the most particular woman can do in the home.

This takes the visitor to the finishing room where the family bundle is assembled. The rough-dry are separated on hooks after coming out of the dry rooms and tumblers. Here each piece is again inspected, checked up by Mrs. Peterson and checked out to Clarence Ingalls, who in his usual courteous manner delivers your bundle to your home. This is his business to see that your bundles are called for and promptly returned, and to help to relieve you of the proverbial "blue Monday" with its drudgery in the home.

In going thru the plant you will visit the boiler room, where in the charge of James Rogers where you will see a large boiler that was installed a year ago, furnishing steam for the plant, engine and water pumps, the latter from which the laundry gets all its water. Here they have a 35-foot well which guarantees an unlimited supply of pure, soft water. Tests have been made of the water and it is found to be nearly as soft as rain water. This feature alone is worth hundreds of dollars to the laundry and to its customers.

Many larger laundries are greatly handicapped in this respect as it is necessary to take the hardness out of the water before it can be used, which adds much expense and many times means poor work.

Even with good water in its favor, it has not been an easy task to build up a laundry business. It has required more than soft water and good equipment. When the laundry started everyone that it ought to do well, but they forgot that in order to have it prosper they must patronize it.

Many users of laundry work still feel that they must send their washings to a wash woman, believing that a laundry destroys their clothes. And still others were under the false impression that it costs too much to have the family washing done at the laundry. Happily, however, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson have been able to prove to their customers that they can have their work done at the laundry as cheaply or cheaper than they can do it at home or have it done by a wash woman, and thus eliminate that distasteful wash day at home. Wash day at home means hard work, and a laundry means a more cheerful and less excessive use of time for washing and ironing, poor meals for that day, and a mighty tired woman at night, when she ought to be devoting her time to baking, sewing or the many other duties of the home.

The laundry gives special attention to curtain, having placed curtain dryers on the second floor to take care of this work. This machine stretches and dries the curtain without hooks, and every care is given your curtain.

Mr. Peterson's slogan for the Laundry is "send it to the Laundry" and a visit will convince you.

few more strokes, and he meant to pull toward the lake's shore. The pulling had grown to be an enormous effort. Lee was again conscious of fatigue. He felt drowsy in the increasing warmth of the sun. He could have fallen asleep in a moment. But suddenly his senses leaped into activity. From far away he had caught the urgent warning of imminent danger, the faint per-patting of the motor boat.

CHAPTER VI Trapped on the Island

And instantly he began straining at the oars again, redoubling his efforts to gain the shore before the motor boat rounded the point.

At a sudden his attention was attracted by something creeping along the opposite shore. It was a small canoe and a single man in it—Rayway!

It was impossible not to admire the courage that inspired the man after the drubbing he had received. Rayway was, of course, on his way to warn the expected party.

Lee drove hard for the left middle channel of the lake. The main body of Sison lake came into view, a vast expanse of shining water, the shores receding into the hazy distance, out of which a small black object began to be visible, like a bug skimming the surface.

Now the canoe containing Rayway was almost abreast of him. A few more furious pulls—ten, fifteen, now canoe and motor boat and promontory were all hidden behind the point of the island. Lee labored at the oars, turning the York boat's head toward the bank. Once there, they would be safe. But his strength was failing him. Curse the clumsy boat, which hardly seemed to move!

The putting of the motor engine had grown infernally loud. It glided a horror of its own to that sense of pursuit which makes the bravest man something of a coward, the added horror of the fugitive who hears the distant bay of bloodhounds.

That meant that the canoe had come abreast of him. Rayway was passing the intelligence. And the shore was still a hundred yards distant.

There was no chance of reaching it unobserved. It would be neck-and-neck for it, and it was doubtful whether Lee could have escaped along much less with the girl and the back to carry. He swung the boat's blunt nose toward the nearest patch of reeds. Twenty yards! He put all his strength into that last effort. Now the reeds were closing about him. In front of him a tiny open channel appeared. Using one shortened oar as a paddle, he drove vigorously, and found himself in comparative safety. A thick wall of reeds extended between himself and open water, rendering the York boat invisible.

Then the motor began to roar. The shouts of its occupants became audible. The motor boat had rounded the point. Lee had escaped discovery by the skin of his teeth.

And very cautiously, so as not to betray his whereabouts by any undue agitation of the reeds, Lee pushed the boat toward the island. His plan must now be to drive ashore, trusting to escape detection until daylight and to make the wooded shore of the lake in the darkness.

Through the reeds the marshy foreground began to be visible, and a sandy spit projecting to the water's edge. Above it was a hummock overgrown with birch and red spruce, with a tangle of sheep laurel and birch and poplar behind it.

Lee worked his heavy boat noiselessly toward this spit. But suddenly he stopped. The motor boat was coming up the open channel hardly a stone's throw distant. He could hear Rayway in it, following commands to his companions. He could hear the reeds rustling against the boat's side as she forced her passage through them.

"They're not in here!" he heard Rayway say with an oath. "Get into the channel and beat up the island!" Lee, crouching in the stern of the York boat with his pistol in his hand, breathed a sigh of relief as the motor boat withdrew. The roar of her engine began to grow fainter. In a few minutes it had died away.

Lee forced the York boat ashore, up the spit of sand, and stepped onto the ground in his usual and careful manner. He was in the shelter of the spruce thicket, where he had her gently down. For the first time since her injury, he had the opportunity of examining her. Her prolonged unconsciousness alarmed him.

But she was beginning to revive at last, and after assuring himself that the pulse beat fairly strong, he proceeded to make his thorough examination as possible of her injuries.

He turned his examination first to the cut in her head. He tore strips from his shirt, went down to the water and cleaned them thoroughly; then, returning, he proceeded to wash and bandage it. It was a bad wound, with a deep laceration, which was a good thing, relieving the pressure which had no doubt been the cause of the prolonged insensibility. Having ascertained that she seemed to have received no bodily injuries beyond contusions, Lee examined her limbs. He saw that one knee hung awry. In a moment he had the gaiter off, and discovered that the joint had been dislocated.

Short of the setting of a broken knee, there are few operations more painful than the restoration of a joint into position, and Lee prayed fervently that the girl's unconsciousness would last until he had put to her service the knowledge which he had acquired with the Canadian army medical corps upon the western front. It was unnerving, holding that white knee between his hands, so insuring with life, so fragile, delicate, so wonceded to make his thorough examination as possible of her injuries.

World's Deepest Well
The deepest well in the world was completed recently by engineers near Atrope, Pa., when they struck natural gas at a depth of 7,428 feet, or almost one and one-half miles. Says Popular Science Monthly: "Work on the well was begun in 1922, and drilling continued for 30 months. The gas is now flowing at a rate of 500,000 cubic feet a day. The cost of sinking the well was about $200,000."

DR. HUMPHREYS' "77" BEST FOR COLDS GRIP INFLUENZA

When she is twenty a girl hates a man who forgets her birthday; when she is forty she is grateful to him—Philadelphia Record.

Anderson-faced a pretty tough proposition. "What on earth is he going to do with this helpless girl?"

Ancient Use of Copper

Copper and copper alloy objects are found in the prehistoric remains of Egypt, dating back to the fourth dynasty, 3500 to 4700 B. C. They were found in Asia Minor dating probably to 3000 B. C., and in China to about 2500 B. C. The remains of the Mycenaean, Phoenician, Babylonian and Assyrian civilizations (1100 to 600 B. C.) have yielded a variety of copper and bronze objects.

Of French Origin

The term "tailor" comes from the French tailleur, to cut. At one time the tailor, or cissor, made clothes of all descriptions, including underwear and the padding and lining of armor; hence the name "Tailors and Linen Armors," which figures in the early charters granted to the Merchant Tailors Company of the City of London.

Keep Parental Line Intact in an Odd Way

Respect for one's elders is a praiseworthy custom, which, nevertheless, may be carried too far, observes J. D. Newsom in Adventure. On Rung, in the New Hebrides, it has become quite bad form to let one's parents die. Of course, it is rather difficult to keep them alive if they fall out of a tree and break their necks, or meet a shark while they are swimming about in Indian ocean, and extreme old age is also responsible for many casualties.

Even so, the respected parent must not die; he must, on the contrary, live more vitally than ever, and the practical-minded Indians have found a perfectly simple solution to this awkward problem. They go to the next village or a neighboring island and buy a child of the desired sex, whom they adopt as their father, mother or grandparent, as the case may require. The child is given the deceased's name, rank and precedence. He is treated with every mark of respect formerly accorded the real relative—at least when the occasion calls for ceremony.

JIM RATHWAY

SYNOPSIS—Lee Anderson, Royal Canadian Mounted Police sergeant, is sent to Stony Range to arrest a man named Pelly for murder. He is also instructed to look after Jim Rathway, reputed head of the "Free Traders," illicit liquor runners. At Little Falls he finds Pelly is credited with having found a gold mine, and is missing. At the hotel appears a girl, obviously out of place in the rough surroundings. A half-breed, Pierre, and a companion, "Shorty," annoy the girl. Anderson intervenes in her behalf. The girl sets out for Sison Lake, which also Anderson's objective. He overcomes her and the two men with whom he had trouble. The girl, Pelly, is a half-breed, and is missing. Double Protection

Two big features which mean weeks of extra wear for "U.S." Boots

Live, elastic rubber—layer on layer of reinforcements—these two features guard the life of "U.S." Boots.

No more live and elastic rubber has ever been used in boot construction than that which goes into "U.S." Boots.

Anchored in this rubber are tough fabric reinforcements—as many as eleven separate layers of rubber and fabric, where the hard strains come. They give rugged strength to stand the hardest kind of wear.

"U.S." Boots are protected against destructive bending and wrinkling—against the knocks and strains that shorten the life of ordinary boots.

No wonder people everywhere are finding that "U.S." Boots mean longer wear! It will pay you to ask for "U.S."

Other "U.S." Rubber Footwear

You'll find every type of rubber footwear in the big "U.S." line. There's the "U.S." Walker, the famous all-rubber overshoe—the "U.S." Tack Boots, an all-rubber work shoe—and "U.S." Rubbers and Arctics for every member of the family. Look for the "U.S." Trade-mark whenever you buy.

One of Best Things by Governor Tener

Many baseball men, past and present, gathered at the testimonial recently given in Pittsburgh for Barney Dreyfuss, among them being John K. Tener, former governor of Pennsylvania and for a time president of the National League. Tener's presence brought out a story from one of the speakers which showed he has never forgotten the days when he was a pitcher for the Chicago Cubs.

When Tener was governor, so the story goes, a certain member of the house was very earnest about a bill he had fostered, sponsored and treasured. This bill finally came up for Tener's signature, and he signed it.

The house member was so thankful that he couldn't find words to express his gratitude to the governor. Meeting him personally, he said: "Governor Tener, I think that's one of the best things you ever did."

The governor looked into the eyes of the lawmaker for a moment, then retorted: "You've got it all wrong—I once shut out the Giants."

LIMITED OLYMPICS URGED BY BRITISH

Shorter and Speedier Program Is Favored for Games in 1928.

Great Britain intends to take the lead in advocating a shorter and speedier Olympic program at the 1928 games which will be held in Amsterdam, Holland. The first steps to bring this about are likely to be taken when the International Olympic committee, the National Olympic committees and the International associations, which govern the sport in each country, send representatives to the meeting at Prague in May.

That there is a general feeling the games should be shortened and that certain sports should be eliminated from the program is a belief held strongly by British athletic authorities. One plan to eliminate some of the sports which were included at Paris, and which caused the games to be extended and to contain many events that were little appreciated, is to have countries vote on what sports may be admitted, and no event will be included which has not the vote of at least six interested countries. How far this plan will get remains to be seen, the British authorities admit.

Preliminary heats and preliminaries leading up to finals in events that heretofore have not been classified as major ones may be curtailed or entirely eliminated where the sport itself is not deleted, according to another plan which is being advocated in Europe. Looking eight years ahead, England is not certain that it will be able to send a very large team to the Olympic games to be staged at Los Angeles in 1932. The cost and the inability of members of the English team to spare the time necessary to make such a trip are factors which at present are causing grave doubt in England on this point.

Penn May Go Abroad

University of Pennsylvania's crew may go to England this year in quest of the Royal Henley championship, according to plans now being considered by the rowing committee. "If Penn's varsity proves itself worthy," said Chairman J. A. Brown, "we will send it abroad. But the oarsmen must first show they are of championship caliber, and I understand the outlook is exceptionally bright this year." Penn sent an eight-oared crew to the English Henley in 1904. It beat all its rivals in the heats, but lost in the final to the famous Leander eight.

Vogel Goes to Iowa

Otto H. Vogel, center fielder for the Chicago Cubs, and former Illinois three sport star, signed to succeed Sam Barry as head basketball coach at the University of Iowa. Barry will continue as head basketball and assistant football coach. Vogel coached Elgin (Ill.) high school to a state baseball championship last spring. He will quit organized baseball.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MELLY'S BIRTHDAY

It was Melly's birthday. But she didn't know it.

You may think it was strange to think that a little girl's birthday had come and that she didn't know it. And it would be strange were it not for the reason.

When there is a good reason everything is clearly understood.

It was a very excellent reason which kept Melly from knowing it was her birthday.

She had been thinking about her birthday for many days. She had heard her family whispering secrets—lovely—birthday secrets she knew. She had seen one or two mysterious looking bundles hurried into a bureau drawer and her mother had said:

"Don't look in this bureau drawer. Not that there is anything exciting in it—but don't look anyway!"

That was another birthday secret mystery—to pretend there was nothing important really in the drawer and yet not to look!

The night before her birthday Melly had gone to bed feeling very happy. The next morning would be her birthday. It would be her birthday all day long. All day long there would be special treats, special fun, special events.

Yet now it was Melly's birthday and she didn't know it!

Ah, but the reason!

She was fast asleep and so she didn't know it was her birthday.

She was sleeping dreamlessly, happily, contentedly, when suddenly she heard right through her sleep, the sound of a bell ringing. It was the gay bell which sat upon the sideboard.

And she also heard a beautiful new song the family had lately bought. It had such pretty, musical notes.

Then she was being kissed and everyone was saying:

"Many happy returns of the day, Melly."

She knew it was her birthday now. She was wide, wide awake and the excitement was all beginning.

Just as she was about to have her breakfast which was surrounded by ferns and flowers her little friend Mahalia arrived.

Mahalia was carrying the dearest little bunch of sweet pink roses you ever saw.

Melly had seen pretty roses before. She had seen beautiful roses. But these roses were the dearest little ones of all. They were so sweet and fragrant, so cunning and pink. There were ferns about them, too, and they had some little silver paper around the stems so that Melly could wear them.

Of course Melly could wear them without the silver paper, but for a fine event it was nice to have the flowers look so dressed up, too.

"Many happy returns," said little Mahalia. "I've brought you roses for your breakfast."

Well, didn't that sound nice! Think of having roses brought you for your breakfast. Melly was delighted.

Then came the table with the presents, a new doll, a set of picnic dishes for the dolls when they wanted to eat out-of-doors so that they could save their good pink dishes for indoor parties, a game, three lovely cards, four poems, a cake, a wreath, a box of candy and a sweater for her favorite doll.

All through the day lovely things kept happening. In the afternoon there was a party. In the evening, just before she was going to bed, was another surprise present—a book with stories and pictures in it; such a nice book.

And just before she went off to sleep every member of the family came in and said:

"Again many more happy returns of the day."

It was lovely to have a birthday-keep right up all through the day like that.

And beside her bed, in a little vase, were the roses Mahalia had given her at breakfast time and which would give her sweet little flower messages for a good many hours still.

She was sure, because the flowers were so sweet, that they were wishing her very special birthday wishes!

Conundrums

Who is the first boy mentioned in any book? Chap I.

What made the fly fly? Because the spider spied her.

What is the first game of tennis mentioned in the Bible? When Joseph served in Pharaoh's court.

What words have all the vowels in alphabetical order? Facetiously and abstemiously.

What is invisible and yet never out of sight? The letter "I."

Why is a teacher whipping a scholar like your eye? Because she has a pupil under the lash.

Why is a screaming child like the letter "D"? Because it makes ma mad.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

One Detail Was Missing

On the historic afternoon when Jack Johnson fought Jim Jeffries in Nevada for the world's championship there was a baseball game at the old Polo grounds. In the press stand, among others, sat Sid Mercer, the sporting writer, and Franklin P. Adams, the column conductor. For some reason or other, ringside bulletins were not being received at the ball park. Naturally, the crowd wanted to know how the fight was going.

Several hundred spectators, drawn by the fact that telegraph instruments were clicking in the press stand, packed themselves solidly behind the wire netting in the hope of hearing tidings from Reno or at the wire. Mercer and Adams got a terrific inspiration. They pretended to be taking a ringside description of one of the instruments. First one would chant off a purely imaginary account of a round, and then the other would.

Now it so happened that Adams had a bet down on the negro to win, and accordingly favored the black contender. In his turn to "read" a round, he would depict Johnson as hammering Jeffries into a pulp. But Mercer, who was a partisan of Jeffries, would each time retaliate with a spirited but, of course, purely fictitious account of how the white man, having rallied heroically, was now dealing mighty blows upon the head and body of the tottering, weakening black.

Naturally, the listening crowd was torn by conflicting emotions. Cheers and groans marked the utterances of the two gifted romancers. Eventually, when the multitude had grown so in numbers that the pressure of its bulk threatened to break down the netting, the conspirators decided it was time to bring their joke to a climax.

Mercer, cocking his head above an instrument as though the better to hear, began reciting, somewhat after this fashion:

"Round seven! At the sound of the bell the two men leap to the center of the ring! They exchange a whirlwind of jabbing upper cuts."

The lighting is the fiercest ever seen in a heavy weight contest. Suddenly the knock-out blow is delivered upon the point of the jaw! The defeated man drops like a log! His seconds drag him unconscious to the corner. The mad denunciation of the referee and pandemonium reigns supreme!"

Here he paused and, with the air of one who has completed a hard job, turned as though to sit down.

From a thousand throats behind him one question arose in a mighty chorus: "Who wins?"

Dramatically Mercer raised his hand for silence, and a deep hush befell the spectators.

"The dispatches did not state," he said, simply, and sat down again.

Combating the Yellow Peril

Every time the government takes a census this story is revived, which means it enjoys a rejuvenated popularity at intervals of exactly ten years. When I catch myself laughing at it, I know that another decade has slipped by me unawares.

The story has to do with the enumerator who called at a humble home in the outskirts of Cincinnati, and there found the head of the family hunched up over a large volume. It developed, in the course of the conversation, that the householder some months before had been induced by a traveling agent to invest in an encyclopedia, and that to get the worth of his money he had been reading the books of the set pretty constantly ever since. He was now full of facts, statistics and data.

In reply to the caller's questions he gave his name and age and his wife's name and age.

"How many infant children have you?" asked the census taker.

"Two and three," said the citizen. "And that's all there ever will be, so you take it from me."

"What makes you so positive about that?" asked the visitor.

"I'll tell you why there won't never be but three," said the man. "It's wrote down in this here book that every fourth child born in the world is Chinese."

A Shakespearean actor was left stranded in a small town in Michigan. This was in the days when there still were Shakespearean actors.

He obtained board at the local hotel until a remittance arrived to take him back to Chicago. As he had no funds for tipping purposes he got scant attention from the servants.

One day he pushed and pushed the push button in his room without getting an answer. Then he got out of bed, put on his trousers and examined the coat collar up about his bare throat and ventured through the hallway until he came to the rounds opening down upon the office floor.

"Bellboy! Bellboy!" he called in his best speaking voice.

"Watcher want?" answered back a youthful mental-imperitively.

"Bellboy," said the thespian with much dignity, "I desire my laundry to be brought to me forthwith."

"G'wan!" said the boy. "You didn't have but half a shirt when you hit this town."

"That," said the actor, "is the laundry to which I refer."

Simply Wasted Time

When Hobart makes up his mind to anything, it is a hard matter to change him. One day when he decided to do something his sister did not want him to do she talked to him for a long time, trying to persuade him to see her point of view.

When she finally desisted from lack of further reasons, he said, "You see, Millie, you've wasted all your talk, for my mind is just where it was when you started." —"From the Mouths of Babies" in Chicago Tribune.

Most headaches due to lack of internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste and are carried to all parts of the body. Headaches follow. Bilioussness, insomnia, lack of energy, all result from constipation, which if unchecked will lead to serious results.

Avoid Laxatives—Say Doctors

A noted authority says that laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative, and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly, and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

ESSENTIALS FOR SERVICE.

H. M. Atkinson, of the Georgia Railway and Power Company, gives five factors essential to the development and increase of new industries:

1. Availability of raw material.
2. Labor supply and conditions, both skilled and unskilled.
3. Transportation facilities.
4. Power supply.
5. A favorable attitude of the public mind toward the establishment and operation of industries.

Given the first four, development is inevitable. Without the fifth, the public mind is brought to a favorable attitude by the constant vigilance of our modern industries and public service companies to the ever-increasing needs of the people for new and varied products and service.

CARD OF THANKS.

We most sincerely thank our friends and neighbors of Grayling and Maple Forest, for their many acts of kindness in our recent bereavement.

EARTH "QUAKERS".

The earthquake that startled the country about the Central States region and Canada at about 8:20 o'clock Saturday night was plainly felt by many in Grayling. George Skingsley, residing at the Reservation, reported that "chairs and things about the house started dancing about the room. Grant Shaw says that things at his home took on a slanted appearance and that the window shades swung away from the walls and with cords dangling. James McDonnell says he happened to be in his chicken coop and suddenly he began to feel dizzy and the chickens became aroused and two of them flew against the glass windows breaking them and "few the coop" out into the darkness. He said he grabbed his shot gun that he keeps handy, believing that chicken thieves were about. These are good honorable citizens and to even think that it was something else than a real earth quake that could cause them to see things as they could would never enter our mind. Checking up on ourselves we recall that upon the next time of the quake we sat patiently awaiting our turn at the McCullough-Matson close-shaving emporium. We didn't notice any unusual phenomenon except that Herb seemed to be staggering about more than usual, while George had his knee on the chest of one of the chair victims and Matt's knife slipped and accidentally cut off a mustache, all during the quake. One fellow slid out of the shoe-shine chair, others were busy clinging to their seats and all the cuspidors and loose furniture moved over to one side of the room. Outside of that we didn't notice anything unusual. Houghton wasn't present and we haven't had a quake from him, so don't know just how he did fare. Others report some excitement but as we were not present can't vouch for their stories.

Will E. Hampton, grand secretary of Grand Lodge of Michigan, Knights of Pythias, will pay an official visit to the Grayling lodge next Tuesday evening, March 10th. In honor of the distinguished visitor, the local lodge will give a banquet at the Temple at 6:30 o'clock to which all members are cordially invited to be present.

During the "smoker" hour there will be a social visit and talks such as are always enjoyed at such occasions, and a good time is in store for the members.

It is hoped that there will be a good attendance at the banquet to greet Secretary Hampton. The latter has visited Grayling on many former occasions and his coming will be looked forward to with keen delight. Note change in the meeting night—Tuesday instead of Wednesday.

THE Ford car has remained the undisputed leader for value in the motoring world. There are certain fundamental reasons why this is true. It is a car, properly designed and staunchly constructed, having a motor which has proved itself reliable, long-lived and economical.

It is adequately serviced by an organization reaching to every community and neighborhood. These combine to give the Ford car the highest resale value in proportion to list price.

And as production volume of the Ford has grown the purchase price has been steadily reduced.

WHAT STATE LAW MAKERS ARE DOING

Measure Introduced Provides For Change In Method Of Primary Elections

Lansing, Mich. The expected move for primary election reform was launched in the Legislature when Rep. Charles Evans, of Lansing, introduced a measure providing for party enrollment, pre-primary conventions and election of delegates. This program coincides with one recently introduced by the Michigan State Farm Bureau, the State Association of Supervisors and other organizations.

The Evans measure provides that the pre-primary conventions shall in future be held for each office whose name will appear on the primary ballot. This indorsement would not shut out other candidates nor would it make the convention indorsement necessarily equivalent to election. Other candidates of the same party could enter the primaries by securing nominating petitions, as they now may.

It is expected, however, that the pre-primary convention indorsement would carry a tremendous advantage and that few candidates would be likely to enter the field against him for nomination.

Precipitation of a fight in the legislature over pollution of the waters of Michigan by private concerns and by municipalities was scheduled. Representative Harold Smedley, of Grand Rapids, announced that he was ready to introduce companion bills on the subject in the house.

If these bills are enacted into law, municipalities all over the state will have to concentrate on study looking to the building of sewage disposal plants and scores of private corporations will have to actively plan ways and means of disposing of their wastes other than into various streams and lakes.

In the case of Detroit, these bills promise expenditure of millions of dollars, for at conservative estimates a tremendous sum will be involved in a change of Detroit's sewage disposal system. The Detroit river now is used.

Five proposals are already before the Legislature to amend the Constitution. They are: 1. The creation of metropolitan districts to limit regular sessions of the Legislature to 90 days, to curtail the right to bear arms, to permit sheriffs to be elected for more than two consecutive terms and to provide that fines assessed for breach of the penal laws shall be placed in the general fund of incorporated villages instead of in the library fund. The first of these, the metropolitan district proposal, has been approved by the Senate for submission to a referendum. The House has voted to submit the fourth and fifth proposals. Then there is a mandatory proposal to submit to the voters on general election day in November, 1926, the question of having a general revision of the constitution.

The Secretary of State would be required to revoke drivers' licenses held by persons convicted of driving while drunk under the terms of the bill introduced in the House by Representative John P. Eppe, of Eagle. The measure would require the removal of a driver's license for one year upon the first conviction, for three years on the second conviction and for all time upon three convictions. At present the removal of a license is discretionary with the secretary of state.

All members of partnerships of corporations or individuals owning and operating drug stores, pharmacies, or apothecary shops, would be required to become registered pharmacists under provisions of a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Horatio Karcher, of Rose City. The bill is not retroactive in effect, and exempts from its provisions persons already owning such shops or pharmacies, administrators of estates, or heirs to pharmacies, and drug stores.

A bill authorizing the establishment of regular terms for the trial of jury cases in justice courts in cities, regulating the method of selecting jurors and providing a board of jury commissioners to consist of the mayor, city clerk and city assessors, was introduced in the Senate by Senator Roy Herald.

Two bills, affecting the disposition of funds collected from cemetery lots and amending an act authorizing the levy of taxes in school districts were adopted and forwarded to the House.

Farmers are more numerous in the 1925 Legislature than any other class, as shown by the legislative handbook issued this week. There are 36 of them, of whom 28 are in the House. In addition there are half a dozen more who combine farming with other lines. The legal profession has the next largest representation, there being 20 lawyers in the Senate and representatives. Mrs. Cora Reynolds Anderson, the only woman legislator is recorded in the handbook as "housewife."

In a brief skirmish on the floor of the Senate, Senator Frank L. Young, of Lansing, declared a bill introduced by Senator Arthur Wood to provide for breaking and entering or burglary without breaking into dwellings, as "vicious in intent" and declared his intention to oppose its passage. The bill, which was up for third reading, was passed for the day on the motion of Senator Wood. "To allow Senator Young to consider it further during the next few days."

Michigan Happenings

In a closely contested fight the Republican state central committee, in convention at Detroit, elected Kennedy L. Potter of Jackson, as chairman in place of Burt D. Cady of Fort Huron, who has held that position for seven years. The vote was 588 to 507. The chairmanship was the last business before the convention to be decided. First, the composition of the new state central committee in accordance with nominations at district caucuses was fixed. Then the resolutions of the convention were approved, and nominations were made for the various state offices that are to be filled at the April 6 election.

E. A. Mavis, chairman of the extension committee of the Grand Rapids Safety Council, who is in charge of the organization of the Central Western Michigan Safety Council, has arranged a program of organization meetings in 12 cities in this region prior to April 1. When these communities have formed locals each will be asked to name delegates to the central council which will attempt to co-operate in enforcement of uniform traffic and safety laws.

Ground for the new $175,000 Stanley Kresge gymnasium has been broken on the Albion College campus, George E. Dean, Albion manufacturer, who is chairman of the college building committee, presiding. The entire Albion student body witnessed the ceremony, which was followed by addresses by Mr. Dean, president; John L. Seaton and Lyman Judson, of Plymouth, president of the Student Senate.

The Michigan State Farm Bureau has started suit against 28 farmers of Berrien, Cass, and Ogemaw townships for the collection of delinquent farm bureau dues, and Justice Taylor has summoned the defendants to appear in his court at Ionia March 6. It is alleged that nearly all these defendants signed for membership during a membership drive put on some four years ago.

Albert H. Lloyd, dean of the graduate school of the University of Michigan, was appointed acting president of the University of Michigan by the board of regents of the university at their meeting at Ann Arbor. Dean Lloyd will occupy the position made vacant by the death of Dr. Marion LeRoy Burton, for the remainder of the academic year.

In a short range pistol duel, Patrolman Edward Perrin shot to death an unidentified gunman and frustrated the robbery of the drug store at 2435 Woodward avenue, corner of Duffield street, Detroit. Unaware that he was stepping into a holdup or gun battle, the policeman, entered the store to purchase a package of chewing gum.

With no effort on his part being made to furnish the $100 bond demanded by Justice Dugan, Andrew Quigley is still in jail at Mt. Clemens and his hearing again has been adjourned. Quigley is one of the defendants named in the warrants issued as a result of Judge Leland Curtis' gun man grand jury last autumn.

Mrs. W. Earl Ross, wife of the assistant treasurer of the A. C. Spark Plug Co. of Flint, was found burned to death in the kitchen of her home by the husband when he came home for lunch. Police officers expressed the opinion that there had been an explosion of gas from the kitchen stove. The house did not catch fire.

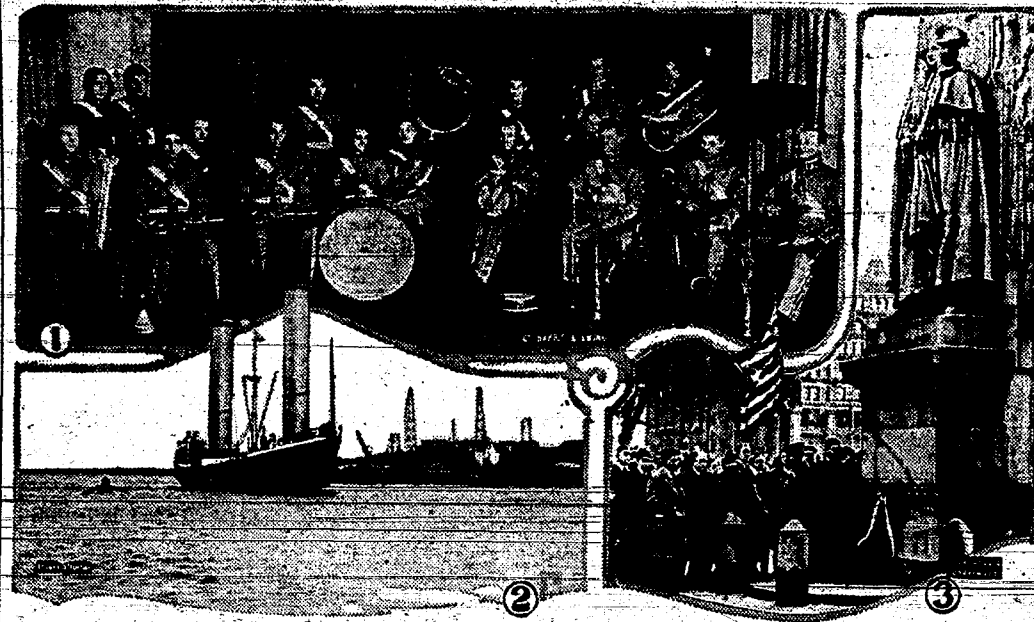

Acting Postmaster Charles C. Kellogg of Detroit has been nominated by President Coolidge for postmaster according to a telegram from Washington. Should the appointment be accepted by the Senate it will be the first time that any man in the postal service has ever been promoted to the postmastership of Detroit.

Lack of funds with which to erect a church building does not discourage the Holy Catholic church society. The organization which owns a building site at Holly, has decided to erect a church from stones to be gathered from fields in this vicinity. Members of the society will haul the rock to the building site.

Reports given at the annual meeting of the Michigan Livestock Cooperative Shipping association at Lansing showed that $13,000,000 worth of livestock has been handled through the Detroit and Buffalo offices, and in addition to obtaining lower rates, the association has returned $20,000 in dividends to shippers.

Poor support given the social service bureau at Lansing led to the resignation of Miss Grace Cone, secretary of the bureau for the last five years and a member of the staff seven years. Miss Cone plans to go to Tulsa, Okla. Miss Margaret Campbell, head of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, also announced her resignation. Failure of a drive here last fall to raise sufficient money for the Community Welfare fund has greatly handicapped the social service bureau.

The wish of a dead woman that part of her money, $5,000, be used to build a club house for the "Women of Marshall," may not be fulfilled for years. The Monday club, which was bequeathed the money, has no other funds. The woman, Miss Elizabeth K. Hughes, asked that somewhere in the contemplated building a memorial plate to her memory be placed. She also left several thousand dollars to the public library without specifying the purpose, for which it is to be used.

Indiana Democratic Solons Leave State to Prevent Alleged Gerrymander.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

DEMOCRATS of the Indiana senate, taking a leaf from the book of the Rhode Island Republicans, left the state last week to save their party from what they feared would be a dangerous gerrymander. Eighteen of them bolted, and fifteen took refuge in Ohio where, it was asserted, they were safe from arrest. Thus the quorum was broken and no legislation was possible.

It all started with a plan of the Republicans to pass a bill taking Indiana county from the Third congressional district, which is normally Democratic, and adding it to the Second district, which is doubtful. As Lawrence county is strongly Republican, this scheme would decrease the chances of the Democrats for electing a congressman from the Second district. So, calling themselves "county own minutes," they absented themselves from the session.

When the chief doorkeeper was sent to arrest them, they locked themselves in a hotel room and later, hearing that the militia was to be used in coercing them, they sought sanctuary outside the state. Only three Democratic senators remained in Indianapolis—one, a lookout and two who were ill. Warrants were issued for the arrest of 34 of them, but the Ohio authorities said they saw no way in which they could aid the Indiana Republicans. Nothing like this has happened in Indiana since 1869 when the Democratic minority in the legislature resigned so that the fifteenth amendment to the federal constitution could not be taken up for ratification.

Later in the week some sort of compromise was arranged and the bolting senators started back to Indianapolis.

ABOUT one hundred women, representing a million members of national women's organizations, spent several days in Washington in a conference on ways of keeping the peace of the world. They are not pacifists, nor advocates of immediate disarmament, but patriots who believe the dangers of war may be lessened.

The government, led by President Coolidge himself, took a lively interest in the meeting and he and other high officials gave the women brief but snappy lectures on national defense as a peace insurance. The president talked to them on national reduction of armament, saying:

"About in proportion as the nations shall make progress in creating effective tribunals for the peaceful settlement of international differences, they will find themselves able to lessen their military establishments. For the present the most we can hope is to secure general acceptance, in good faith and without reservation, of the view that whatever armaments are created, whatever preparations we make, shall be limited by the reasonable requirements of security. I do not think we should set a good example by abolishing our army and navy."

Then Secretary of War Weeks discussed impractical idealism and practical preparedness, and Gen. John L. Hines, chief of staff, gave an illuminating talk on the national defense act and what is needed for self protection. Preparedness, industrial and military, were discussed by Assistant Secretary of War Davis and Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commander of the army war college. Gen. Ely Helmick gave a lesson on "The Undermining of the Youth of the Nation" and told the women: "Radical societies that teach socialism, communism and syndicalism, and that advocate violent changes in our governmental system, exist in our Washington university, the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, Wesleyan college, Bryn Mawr and Vassar."

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill all the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black squares. All words used are dictionary words except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

ANIMALS OF NEVERWERE

By DON W. REI

THE RING-EARED TIGERET

The Ring-Eared Tigeret, is the Hattentat's chief pet. He is a beast with many virtues to his credit. He is nice, and tame and clever, be it rain or shiny weather. Though his pedigree would shock you if you read it.

When he climbs up in a tree, it would make you grin to see the way this tough old codge goes to bed. With his ring-like ears, somehow, he just circles a stout bough, And he sleeps there hanging straight down from his head.

When he awakens in the morn, his ears are sometimes torn, Which makes the Tigeret so angry that He buys himself a Sundae, and he waits 'till week from Monday, Then he steals himself the Zoo Policeman's hat.

Too True!

Two good women called upon Goldwyn Smith to solicit a subscription. One of them stated their case at some length, while Smith sat listening to grim silence. The woman concluded her appeal and then said: "I am awfully sorry, Goldwyn Smith, I am wearying you. You said, and rising, bowed them out. From 'My Windows on the Street of the World' by James Mavor.

Efficiency in Kissing

"Should the young man remove his hat when kissing the young lady?" an etiquette book ad wants to know. Of him, and as an innocent bystander we should say, having in mind the bonnet like-lute-the-gals-are-wearing-hat hat overlying like the perch on a busy roof—offhand we should say: "If he'd have to remove his hat, it's no use. The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

SET ASIDE FUNDS FOR LEGION WORK

Trustees of the Knights of Columbus have appropriated $75,000 to the rehabilitation work of the American Legion so that this work may be financed properly during the current year, while the Legion endowment fund is being raised to insure that the work shall be carried on as long as there is need of it, National Adjutant Russell Cleveland has announced.

At the same time Mr. Cleveland stated that the American Legion auxiliary and the Forty and Eight have each pledged $25,000 to finance the child welfare program during the year. The child welfare program will be financed in future with half of the amount derived from the income on the endowment fund.

Resolutions expressing the Legion's appreciation have been sent, at the direction of the national executive committee, to each of the organizations. "It was found necessary," Mr. Cleveland said in announcing the gifts, "to secure assistance from sources other than the regular income channels of the Legion to carry on its work for disabled veterans of the World war and for orphans of veterans properly during the present year. The Knights of Columbus, the American Legion auxiliary and the Forty and Eight have generously come forward to supplement Legion finances for these purposes."

"These gifts make it possible for the Legion to continue in 1925 to render these services, which are so important to the entire nation, on the same high plane as it has rendered them in the past. They will also permit us to make the necessary extensions and additions to our program."

"The immediate emergency has been met. These gifts insure these services for 1925, but no more. It remains for the Legion to make sure beyond peradventure of a doubt that this work shall be carried on effectively and on the same humane basis of personal contact so long as there shall be a disabled veteran or an orphan of a veteran who needs our help. That object will be accomplished by the American Legion endowment fund of $5,000,000, which we are now raising throughout the nation."

LOWDEN'S PROMISE

RESPONDING to the invitation of the American Legion to serve on the Legion's honorary committee to raise a $5,000,000 endowment fund for orphaned children of the World war and disabled veterans, former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois wrote James A. Drain, national commander of the Legion:

"During the war I was so grateful for the patriotism and the spontaneity with which our young men responded to their country's call to arms across the sea to take part in the worst war that ever afflicted the world, that I said whenever occasion presented itself, we would show those who survived, upon their return, and the dependents of those who should fall on the other side, our deathless gratitude. In serving upon your committee, I am but redeeming in a very small way the promise I then made."

Would Consolidate in Aiding Needy Veterans

Crosscup Platoon post of the American Legion, Boston, would consolidate relief efforts of organizations rendering aid to disabled and needy veterans. The plan is to eliminate duplication of relief work and to increase its general efficiency.

Conferences with officials of the United States Veterans' bureau, officers of the state department of the American Legion, American Legion auxiliary and other military and civilian organizations have indicated a unanimous sentiment in favor of unification and standardization of relief efforts.

Ultimately the consolidated effort is expected to develop into a veteran "vigilante" with the confidence of the public. Organizations professing relief to disabled or needy veterans will have to satisfy the veteran-civilian central group that their purposes are honest and their methods are wise.

Madrid—Samuel Goldwyn has just paid $40,000 out of court in order to avoid a trial of Maurice Masterlinck's suit in the New York supreme court for breach of contract. It was announced by Dudley Malone, M. Masterlinck's attorney, M. Masterlinck's suit was based on a contract to write scenarios, signed in 1920, when the playwright visited America with his young wife. Mr. Goldwyn broke the contract after M. Masterlinck's tour closed abruptly.

Air Collision Kills Two
Camp Borden, Ont.—A collision in mid-air between two aircraft resulted in the instant death of two officers when their machine was rendered helpless and crashed to earth. The dead are Flight Lieutenant L. J. M. White, of Halifax, who was flying the crippled machine as instructor, and Flying Officer H. E. Cross, his pupil. The other plane was not so badly damaged and its pilot, by a feat of splendid coolness, was able to bring it safely to the ground.

We want you to make this test

WE want every weak, puny, fagged-out man and woman in America to make this test: buy one bottle of Tanlac at your drug-gist's, take it according to directions for one week and see how quickly you get started back to full strength and vigor.

We know what we are talking about. Tanlac has helped millions. In our files are more than 100,000 letters of praise from grateful users.

Don't confuse Tanlac with ordinary patent nostrums. It is Nature's own tonic and builder, compounded from roots, barks and herbs that we gather at great expense from the four corners of the earth.

Tanlac goes straight to the seat of your trouble; cleanses and purifies the blood stream; puts your digestion in proper shape. First thing you know you have an appetite like a starved child. You rest at night and your whole body begins to feel the stir of strength and energy.

Don't you be discouraged. Don't put off testing Tanlac another day. Get a bottle now and in a week you should notice signs of real improvement.

Cost of Revolution
Final accounts submitted to the Hungarian national assembly show that Count Michael Karolyi's revolution and government cost the Hungarian bolshevist regime over 100,000,000 crowns. The slaying resulted from the currency of 1919, or over $300,000,000.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

M. D. BAILEY
County Agricultural Agent

Science and the Farmer.

Probably no class of people, to be successful at what they are working at, need to come into such close touch with science as does the farmer.

True there are many who would scorn the thought of doing anything in a skillful way, or a scientific way, yet, those who make the greatest success and avoid the most mistakes are those farmers whose daily practice and the season's effort, is guided by the thought, "Am I doing this according to the best knowledge that we have today?"

We farmers are apt to think: "I do not see where there can be very much science put into this kind of work. Maybe a doctor, or a civil engineer, or a manufacturer could use science but I can't."

The maker of autos might just as well try to temper and toughen the drive shaft and the gears of the differential for the terrible strain to which they are subjected without the use of science as built up by years of experiment with processes with metal, as for the farmer to omit the finding of long, elaborate experiments carried on for his benefit.

The maker of varnish, of submarine telegraph cables, of fertilizer of sugar, of phonographs or of radio sets, to succeed, has to be governed by laws of nature (called science) as discovered by experience and experiment.

As these people would be highly foolish to try to carry out their work without information as to what condition gave them the greatest success so the farmer is as highly foolish to invest his life, his labor, his capital, the comfort and happiness of his family, in his farming expecting it to be successful when he does not know the rules of the game.

Cause Our Own Bad Luck.

Many a man has played in bad luck a long time on a farm because he did not have enough income. He did not have stock enough because he did not have the hay. He did not have the hay because he used too much poor seed, and because the good seed he sowed was put onto land so lacking in lime that the hay could not grow at all, or only scantily. Such a farmer could have changed his whole fortune by becoming interested in Agricultural Limestone.

Many thousands of farmers have adopted the practice of liming to their great profit.

Farmers have done so in every state in the United States. The Pennsylvania Dutch have used lime for more than a hundred years. In England, it is an old practice. In France, Belgium, Germany and Denmark it has long been used.

Here, in Crawford County, practically every farmer should be just as accustomed to using lime as to applying the stable manure. They just haven't got into the habit. The master part of the state of Michigan needs lime.

Crawford County needs lime for the reasons:

Our soil is naturally lacking in lime.

Our soil is very shallow and of the surface layer is very thin.

Our soil is very fertile and the result of our valuable crops must have the right amount of lime in order to grow abundantly.

Many fields that used to bear splendid crops of hay can do so no more because the necessary lime in the soil of those fields has been leached away and has been pumped out of the soil by the crops grown there.

How Serve You Best.

No county agent can better serve the people of Crawford County than by explaining to them the need of green manures lime and acid phosphate, and in getting the people who want good gardens and profitable crops, lime and acid phosphate, because our soils here are desperately in need of all three.

Some Things That Lime Does.

Lime will so affect the soil that clover, alfalfa, sweet clover will grow where it has not been growing.

Lime will increase the size of those crops if they have been growing only light crops.

Lime will make a sandy soil less leachy. Lime will make a clay soil less lumpy, less liable to bake, to puddle, to run.

A clay soil, well filled with lime, can be worked more days in a year than without lime.

Lime assists in the decay and change to plant food, of the stable manures and green manures you plow under. Lime will correct the acidity of a sour soil. Lime will so correct the soil that the nitrogen gathering bacteria can thrive and do their work, which is the best and cheapest way we have of fertilizing our farm soils.

Just fix the soil with lime so these bacteria in the soil can store the nitrogen out of the air.

A wise farmer will do this instead of buying nitrogen fertilizer which is now quoted at $68.50 for nitrate of soda, and $70.50 for ammonium sulphate.

Don't Kid Yourself.

Now don't kid yourself that you will get around this price of nitrogen by not buying it.

Crops must have it or they will not grow. One reason for the half-sized crops we see all around is lack of nitrogen.

This lack would have been supplied if the land were limed so the nitrogen gathering bacteria could thrive in the soil.

Two tons of lime per acre have been found to increase the bacteria in a grain of soil (about size of grain of wheat) from 480,000 to more than five million five hundred thousand.

In rainy regions 500 to 800 pounds of lime per acre are leached out of the soil per year.

Some land now being farmed in Crawford needs three tons of lime per acre.

The average farm land here will be much benefited by two tons per acre.

An application of lime lasts several years, though for a while, it would be best if the farmer limed once in each rotation of crops.

Lime often more than doubles the growth of clovers, and, of course, gives more growth to plow under and a bigger manure pile to be hauled to the field.

Hall, director of the famous Rothamsted Experiment Station, states: "On very light soils the addition of lime acts to a certain extent as a binding material, and increases the water-holding power of the soil, but is not so effective in this respect as humus."

Lime has a very powerful chemical effect, liberating freely the reserves of plant food of all kinds in the soil and sending them available to the plant."

Limestone is cheap.

Every farmer in the county must have seen in his farm papers, pictures of crops growing rank and good on limed land by the side of poor crops on unlimed land.

Let's not talk any more about lime. Let's get some. This is no forlorn hope. This lime idea is going good.

Two farmers in Beaver Creek ordered a whole car for themselves.

I say again, "It's cheap." Dollar and a half a ton, less in car, plus 80 cents freight to Frederic and Grayling; 90 cents a ton freight, in open cars, to Horvath and Roelmon.

For about a dollar a ton the manufacturers will sack the lime. I have written and will soon know the exact price of sacking. But, sacking calls for box cars, which take a higher freight rate.

There are many lawns and gardens in the county, and the villages of the county that would be greatly benefited by lime and acid phosphate.

On Hans Peter Jensen's Farm.

In 1922, Hans Peter Jensen, of Beaver Creek, near the Falling farm, secured the material through the county agent, and thoroughly limed an acre. He put acid phosphate on it, too, then sowed it to 10 pounds of the best Grimm alfalfa seed.

Last summer I drove past the farm. There stood the alfalfa, strong, tall, thick, dark-colored and thrifty, in the midst of a hot, dry time, while the red clover next to the alfalfa was wilted, unthrifty and short.

I do not care to have anything to do this year, with alfalfa experiments where the farmer does not care to do the right thing and get lime and acid phosphate and the best Grimm seed.

Put good, sweet-clover seed, clover, or alfalfa seed on the soil lacking in lime gives the farmer a chance to say the seed was not good, when it is out of reason to expect any alfalfa, clover or sweet clover seed to grow on a sour soil.

As dependable alfalfa seed is scarce and high, and soon going higher, if we can get it at all, let's order seed this week. I can secure seed for only those who deposit cash for it, as I must pay night drafts before I take it from depot.

As acid phosphate must be ordered by March 15, to get it here in time, cash for that should reach the county agent by that time.

We are not getting the lime here until the first good wheeling; so we can wait for lime money and thus divide your burdens.

To date, we have orders for three cars of lime and orders coming in every day.

Plan to sell something to raise the money to buy your lime, acid phosphate and alfalfa seed.

$500,000,000 Gain by Better Feed

BETTER FEEDING INCREASES PROFITS 60%

THE SAME COW SUCCESSIVE YEARS

OVER $500,000,000 extra profit can be made each year by dairy farmers through the employment of better feeding methods. This would mean a saving of about $111 for each of the four and a half million dairy farmers of the United States, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. The truth of this experiment is borne out by a feeding experiment carried on during the past year by the University of Minnesota.

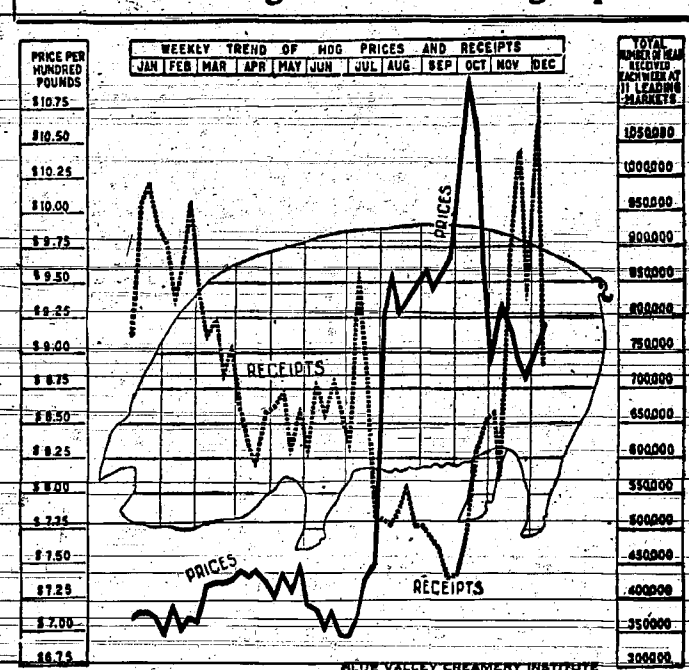

Over a year ago the dairy division of the university purchased four average cows for which records were available of feed received, and of milk and fat produced, covering two years for each cow. The cows received good care on this farm of its original owner but were not on a scientific feeding ration. The university immediately placed the cows on a feeding ration suitable for their needs. Within a year production per cow had increased 36.7 per cent.

On the farm of the original owner the cows produced on the average of 4,602 pounds of milk containing 182 pounds of fat, the products per cow amounting to around $57.58. The feed cost totaled $29.46, leaving a profit of $28.12. At the university farm the average production was 6,375 pounds of milk, containing 258 pounds of butter fat, and valued at $124.82. The average feeding cost per cow was $81.42, an increase of 24 per cent, leaving a profit per cow of $43.40. The returns over feed cost per cow gained 60 per cent over those of the two previous years.

On the owner's farm the cows were on pasture six months of the year and were fed timothy hay for roughage, plus five pounds per day of a grain mixture made up of 80 parts hay, 80 parts middling, 18 parts molasses feed, and 4 parts oilseed. At the university farm the cows were on pasture five months of the year. They were fed corn silage and alfalfa hay as roughage, plus a grain ration, according to production, made up of oats, 2 parts corn, 1 part, and barley, 1 part.

At the most, not more than 5,000,000 dairy cows are on proper feeding rations, the Creamery Institute believes. There are at least 20,000,000 average cows in the United States, they say, from which an added profit of $25 per year could be had by proper feeding.

Fewer Hogs—Prices Going Up

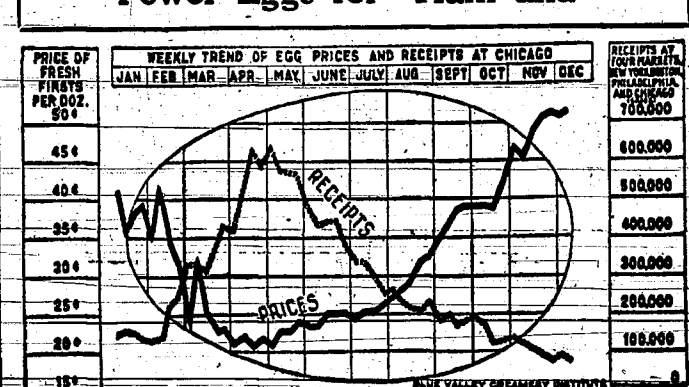

EXPERIENCED hog breeders and buyers believe the period of excessive shipments and low prices for hogs will be followed by a period of a lowered production and higher prices, according to reports received by the Blue Valley Creamery Institute.

For every ten hogs grown in 1923 only eight were grown in 1924. A careful survey over the hog belt further shows a 15 to 20 per cent reduction in the coming spring pig crop as compared with last year's short pig crop. This actual shortage on farms will naturally result in a lowering of shipments to markets and higher prices.

Exactly when this lowered pork supply will be felt is not certain, but it is expected during the early part of the year. Recently prices have averaged from $2.00 to $2.50 per 100 pounds higher to the producer than last winter. When the 1923 pig crop was marketed the average price of hogs at Chicago was $7.65. The corn situation and short hog supply is expected to drive prices up to more profitable levels for the producer.

No signs are visible for a falling off in the demand for hogs during 1925. If pork consumption holds up and if there follows a normal corn crop in 1925, hog feeding this year promises to be far more profitable than it has been for some time.

Fewer Eggs for "Ham and"

Egg production did not live up to its early promises during 1924, according to a review just completed by the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. A survey shows that on January 1, 1924, more chickens were counted on farms throughout the country than ever before. Diversification, which has become a part of the program for poultry as well as dairy and hog products, stimulated a rapid increase in the size of poultry flocks and put the mark at 474,000,000 on the first day of the year. This was an increase of 32 per cent since 1923.

In consequence, the eggs were counted far in advance, and a record production was forecast. Prices held very low, for storage men were reluctant to buy since storage holdings had lost money during the past two years. The entire country was ready for an onslaught of eggs and prices were ready to meet the oversupply.

But the oversupply never arrived. Receipts for the year were 14,644,583 cases as against the receipts of 15,837,520 cases in 1923. This is the first decrease in receipts for the past four years.

YOUR INCOME TAX.

Losses if occurred in a taxpayer's trade or business or profession or in any transaction entered into for profit not compensated for by insurance or otherwise are deductible from gross income in determining net income upon which the income tax is assessed. To be allowed, losses not incurred in trade, business, or profession must conform closely to the wording of the statute. For example, a loss occurred in the sale of a taxpayer's home or automobile, which at the time of purchase was not bought with the intention of resale, is not deductible, because it was not a transaction "entered into for profit." Losses sustained in the operation of a farm as a business venture are deductible. If sustained in the operation of a farm operated merely for the pleasure of the taxpayer, they are not deductible.
